women, gender, and sexuality in middle east and north africa

Join us for engaging roundtables, presentations, and conversations exploring gender, sexuality, and women's activism across the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) regions and diasporas.

This interdisciplinary initiative brings together students, faculty, and staff from East and West campus, along with community partners, to share a diverse range of research, narratives, and creative expression related to women and gender in the MENA. Programs are free.
