Environmental and Sustainable Field Expedition to Costa Rica

ESE 389, CRN 62068, 3 hours credit

Class meets once weekly throughout the Spring Semester (Tues 4:30-5:50pm) in the Natural History Building and travels to Costa Rica over spring break.

How would you like to...

- Hike on a volcano
- Walk through a cloud forest at night while learning about rainforest ecology
- See wild animals including howler monkeys and quetzals
- Eat fresh tropical fruit to your heart's content
- Swim in the Caribbean
- Learn about sustainable agriculture while staying at a Costa Rican family farm
- Learn about how Costa Rica has become "the greenest country in the world"

The course is open to Unit One students or students in the School of Earth Society and Environment.

Significant financial aid is available for Unit One students.

Email lhaber@illinois.edu for more information. Check out the itinerary from last year: <http://go.illinois.edu/CostaRicaClass>
