There is a person whose identity is underrepresented and remains invisible to most. Dr. Ocampo explores why this is and adds the struggles that LGBTQ people of color face in order to be seen, not just by the public, but also by their immigrant families, ethnic communities, and the mainstream gay community. Drawing on the experiences of Latino and Asian American gay men, Dr. Ocampo chronicles the creative strategies that they employ to embrace their identities and create community.

SLAYS will be going to Anthony Ocampo's Guest-in-Residence program "Latinos of Asia: How Filipino Americans Break the Rules of Race".
